Crew Comments

Imogen and George met at sea and share a love of the water both above and below the surface. George started his career on the water as a yacht engineer but after meeting Imogen, he decided to retrain and gain a chefs qualification, having always had a passion for cooking and trying new foods. Imogen has lived next to the sea all her life and can't remember a time not spending the weekend out on a boat or trying a new water-sport. We believe in all the crew being able to do all jobs on the yacht and are proud of the fact that we can easily swap roles. We love exploring new places, trying new foods but sometimes just relaxing and cooking our favourites on board. We both enjoy sailing and want to share our love for living and working at sea.
